PASSENGERS THROWN INTO A PANIC

When Negro Shot Another Negro Because, as He Alleged, the Latter Drew a Knife on Him.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 24.—Passengers in a crowded coach of the Cleveland express on the Fort Wayne road were thrown into a panic here last night when a negro, said to be a discharged soldier, drew a revolver and shot another negro, John C. Wingfield, 29, of Carnegie, Pa., the soldier was arrested by railroad detectives and is being held in jail here. Andrew Chappell, 34, of Cleveland, the victim of the shooting, is in a local hospital with a bullet in his abdomen, and is expected to die. Wingfield alleges that Chappell threatened him with a knife before he fired.

BRITISH TROOPS KEPT IN OUT OF WAY PLACES

And There Is No Immediate Prospect of Withdrawal of the Forces Although There Have Been Reductions.

London, Feb. 24 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A glance at the maps of Europe and Asia on which are designated positions of British troops shows them to be rather well spotted. For one reason or another the British war department still considers it necessary to keep troops in some of the out-of-the-way places of the world. While it is planned to reduce most of the forces there is no immediate prospect of the withdrawal of any force.

In the Balkans the British are using their forces as a stabilizing influence against the varied ambitions of the several states. In Trans-Caspia, northwest of Afghanistan, they are protecting the population from Turkish exactions, the result of the refusal of the Turks to realize they have been beaten in the war. In Russia the British are fighting the Russian bolsheviks. In northern Italy they are acting as a buffer between the Italians and Czechoslovakia until the peace conference settles differences there. Several commands are in Russia and fairly large forces are being maintained in India, Mesopotamia and northern Persia.

Three divisions of the force sent to Italy in 1917 remain but in considerably reduced numbers. Many men have been demobilized and none sent to replace them. One battalion is at Fiume, another in northern Tyrol. A part of this force will be used for the allied army of occupation in Austria.

The three divisions in the Balkans are stationed in the Dobruja which is the subject of considerable controversy between Rumania and Bulgaria, near Constantinople and the Dardanelles and in the vicinity of Saloniki.

In Egypt and Palestine there might be more trouble with the Turks if a British force was not maintained there, while in Mesopotamia it is feared the inhabitants, freed even of Turkish control, would start fighting among themselves if not controlled by the military. These influences necessitate keeping a certain number of troops in these areas, in the opinion of the war office officials here.

The British have troops in Russia on the Murman coast, south of Archangel, and at Omsk while at Vladivostok is a brigade of Canadians.

There is a British garrison of 70,000 in India and it is not expected to reduce this force until just before the heated season begins. Then it is planned to bring home about 20,000 if shipping facilities are available. This is an unusually large garrison for India but the war and colonial office officials believe a large garrison will be necessary for some time.

GOOD IMPRESSION OF WALES.

Was Secured By the American Soldiers in Their "World Tour."

London, Feb. 24.—When the world-touring Yanks who have spent part of their time in Wales get home they'll carry back to the U. S. A. a fine impression of Wales and the hospitality of the Welsh people.

"Never had a better time in my life," says the Yankee sailor after he has been invited to a Welsh home. The Welsh are charming in their homes. Almost without exception every member of the family can sing or play a musical instrument. But while music is ennobling to the soul, there's a surer way to get the full-fledged approbation of the Yanks—and that's through the stomach.

And my, how those Welsh people can cook! Then, too, things were a bit more plentiful there than in England, so between good music, cordial people and plenty of good things to eat the boys are going home with their official O. K. on Wales and all that's Welsh.

Sunday is a favorite time for entertaining the Americans. Every Sunday from 50 to 75 are sent out by the Y. M. C. A. to have dinner and spend the afternoon.

AN EARLY PEACE IS NOW TALKED

The Most Conservative Delegates in Paris Are Moving Faster

CAUTION IS SWEEPED MORE TO ONE SIDE

France Is Being Won Over to the Idea of a Prompt Peace

Paris, Sunday, Feb. 23 (By the Associated Press).—The atmosphere around the peace conference has changed remarkably in the last few days. The deliberation and caution which marked the proceedings of important commissions have given way, and even the most conservative delegates are being carried forward at a great pace. Talk of early peace has become general.

President Wilson, before he left France, urged the American commissioners to spare no exertion to bring the conference to a conclusion, at least respecting a peace treaty, but the actual direct force toward that end has been Premier Clemenceau, who even while receding in his seat during the session, has summoned the premiers of four other great powers to his side in order to impress upon them the need for hastening the great work in their hands.

France originally doubted the wisdom of concluding peace before conditions crystallized in Germany, and effective guarantees against further danger from that quarter had been provided and an opportunity had been assured so that devastated French and Belgian industries would retrieve the ground Germany had gained on them. Now France agrees with America and Great Britain in demanding a termination of the existence of the present technical state of war so that even Germany may resume the normal ways of peace.

This view was reflected to-day by Stephen Pichon, the French foreign minister, in his regular Sunday talk with foreign newspaper correspondents. He said, in discussing the probable date when the treaty of peace will be signed, that work would be hastened as soon as the necessary foundation had been laid. M. Pichon referred to the fact that President Wilson thought when he left that the end could be reached by the middle of May, but added that it might be regarded possible that it might be sooner, and that he saw no reason to doubt it. Asked if the peace conference could then disperse, he replied that general principles which must govern the treaty of peace would be included in the treaty itself, while their application must be determined and made workable afterwards. This was understood as indicating that some portion, at least, of the conference machinery must remain in action after the signature of the treaty.

Americans also believe that the treaty which will be signed first must be followed by another final treaty which will exactly prescribe the conditions to be met by the late enemy powers. Several months may elapse before this can be made ready.

M. Pichon said that Germany would be first dealt with, because of the greater importance of the problems presented in her case, but added there were important peace questions for settlement in connection with Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey. Military experts, he said, have been instructed to examine them and have been in readiness for speedy adjustment.

The commissioners who are considering reparations, the minister said, are near an agreement. The first question to be determined is what Germany owes and then what she can pay. When these are determined a plan can be devised by the entente for dividing the reparation obtained among the entente powers.

In conclusion M. Pichon said that Premier Clemenceau was about to take under consideration the Russian question when he was shot. He said the subject, therefore, awaits his return to his official duties.

WERE SHORTLIVED.

Various Spartan Republics Set Up Through Germany.

Berlin, Feb. 24 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Various spartan republics which from time to time were established in Germany were short-lived with the exception of the "socialist republic of Brunswick," which even after the election throughout Germany continued to defy the central government in every possible manner and did not hesitate to insult the most excited members of the Berlin cabinet. One Berlin paper referred to the new state as "The Fool's Republic of Brunswick."

The president of Brunswick is named Metzges. He left his apprenticeship to a tailor and has made an uncertain living as a "bushelman." His wife still retains her position as an usher in a Brunswick theatre, and is quoted by her neighbors as having said, "None of my husband's plans ever lasted very long, and it will be the same with this one, so I am keeping my job."

The vice-president of Brunswick is a Metzges. He left his apprenticeship to a cabaret before the establishment of the "republic." The minister of education is a woman named Fasshauer, who was once a domestic servant, and later employed as a charwoman by a woman's club. She then became a laundress.

The office of police president is held by a locksmith who, it is said, objected to taking the place because he had no faith in its permanency and who could only be induced to accept it after his employer had promised to re-employ him if he wanted it.

The government of Brunswick, which holds power only by armed force, and which is opposed by an overwhelming majority of the people, as proved by the result of the national assembly elections, has organized a national guard and marine division. These men receive 14 marks daily and "found." This sum is soon to be increased to 17 marks. Large numbers of the unemployed joined the divisions because of the high pay. Quantities of ammunition were collected in the Trans Ducal palace, and the spartan rulers seemed determined to defend their position by force of arms.

All citizens who can do so are leaving the city, Brunswick is issuing floods of paper money which the peasants refuse to accept and which is worthless outside the boundaries of the state. Newspapers are punished by fines or orders suspending publication if they offend through articles which displease the spartan rulers, while the spartan organ, the Volks Freund, alone enjoys untrammelled liberty. Freedom of speech is prohibited at all non-partisan meetings.

GIVING ADVICE ABOUT RUSSIA

Ambassador Francis, Home First Time in Two Years, Makes Recommendations

HAD CONFERENCES WITH PRES. WILSON

And Will Be Present at Congressional Hearings

Boston, Feb. 24.—Ambassador Francis, home from Russia for the first time in two years, had several conferences with President Wilson while coming over on the George Washington and made several recommendations for action on the part of the allied and American governments for meeting the bolshevik menace and restoring Russia to the family of nations. Mr. Francis probably will disclose them later when he appears before one of the congressional committees. He probably will remain in Washington some time, advising the state department and Congress on the situation as he saw it on leaving.

"A reign of terror instituted by the bolsheviks, with the purpose of maintaining themselves in power, is prevailing in central and northern Russia, said the ambassador. "The outrages they have committed are incredible. I think it impossible to restore peace to Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia. In fact, with Germany practically uninvited industrially, I am persuaded that if a peace is negotiated with bolshevik rule continuing in Russia, Germany in 20 years or a decade, will be stronger than she was at the beginning of the war. She is familiar with the Russian character and for a generation has been studying it to influence it. If this turns out, Germany, instead of having been defeated, will have gained a victory."
